St. Stephen's Club

Queen Annes Gate, London SW1

The St Stephen's Club really is one of London's best-kept secrets. It can be found in Queen Anne's gate (noted for its authentic 18th century architecture) in close proximity to Westminster Abbey and The Houses of Parliament.

Housed in an elegant listed building, the St Stephen's club has its own sizeable, private garden overlooking St James's Park. The garden approached from the dining room's French windows and descending a staircase, provides a spectacular setting for wedding photographs and summer parties. Adjacent to the dining room is a spacious bar furnished in traditional style and available for all functions. The cuisine is under the direction of chef, Robert Probst who has been widely acclaimed for his cooking and ability to prepare an excellent selection of dishes. The St Stephens Club is a fantastic venue for both Summer and Christmas parties.
